2020 ANNUAL REPORT

Challenges Bring Opportunities and Growth

The year 2020 certainly turned out differently than we all expected! Although challenging, we have stayed on course with our mission and made significant progress toward opening even greater opportunities within the valley. Of key significance is the expansion of our heritage area.

With MHAA's approval of our boundary expansion in July the heritage area now includes most of Baltimore and Howard Counties' Patapsco River watershed. This new boundary enables us to monitor and remediate additional, critical feeder streams and engage more stream-watchers. It also brings new stories to share about the valley including forgotten granite quarries, immigrant experiences, and additional historical sites. It allows us to widen our recreational trail network to include popular destination spots like Guinness Open Gate Brewery and to engage additional diverse cultural communities who share a love of the Patapsco Valley. In the coming year our goal will be to explore ways that meld these varied sites and stories into an enhanced experience for residents and visitors alike.

Organizationally, since becoming President, I have created Board committees that coincide with key focus areas within our Management Plan— Heritage, Environment, Recreation, and Arts & Culture—each chaired by a vice-president. These committees work alongside PHG staff to help develop and prioritize initiatives to meet goals within their respective areas. Of course it is the hard work of our dedicated staff that we continue to rely on to make it all happen.

Our former Executive Director, Lindsey Baker, accepted a State level job with the Maryland Humanities Commission this summer. I greatly appreciate the influence she had on the organization during her tenure. Under her leadership we broadened the scope of the stories we tell and the communities we reach. She made critical connections and worked diligently to further the development of our partner non-profits. She along with Hannah and DJ, worked quickly this spring to adapt to a rapidly changing work environment with creativity and professionalism, and for that we are grateful.

As we move on to the next chapter I am very excited that a candidate as qualified and experienced as Dr. Aaron Shapiro has elected to become PHG's new Executive Director. Aaron, a noted scholar on public history, brings enthusiasm, a strong understanding of environmental history, and keen insight into heritage tourism. I have confidence, under his leadership, that we will continue to advance our mission with fresh ideas and new approaches as the new reality of our changing world demands.

PHG is passionate about the important role art and cultural activities play in enhancing the Heritage Area experience. Whether it is a live musical performance, art galleries, or an outdoor theatre performance, PHG is committed to supporting art and cultural experiences as a means of enhancing the Valley's appeal to a diverse audience. Last year we were especially excited to see the addition of the newly designated Catonsville Arts and Entertainment District to the Heritage Area. We look forward to finding ways to support, promote, and help develop exciting new opportunities for local artists and the district's cultural arts scene.

Patapsco Heritage Greenway's second annual paSNAPsco photo contest was larger than ever, with nearly sixty entries across twenty-two contestants. It once again yielded a beautiful calendar that highlighted both the beauty of the Valley and the work of many local photo artists throughout 2020. For the fourth year we provided a Juror Award for the annual Ellicott City PAINT IT! plein air competition and sponsored musical performances to benefit our many non-profit partners. We are very excited to be working with Maryland Public Television on a new video that will become a signature piece of 2022's Ec250 anniversary celebration. We also look forward to opening new eyes not only to the murals and galleries in both of our Main Street communities but also future exhibitions at UMBC, the Howard County Center for the Arts, and Howard County Conservancy-Mt. Pleasant.

(top) "Clouded Sulphur on Brown Eyed Susan" by photographer Andrew Gosden took the prize in the paSNAPsco Nature Nurtures category.

The natural environment of the Patapsco Valley Heritage Area is an asset unique among Maryland's Heritage Areas and one that we prize for both its recreational and intrinsic values. In 2020, PHG leaders, staff, and volunteers continued to make significant contributions to understand, preserve, and restore this wonderful natural asset. We hosted live interactive webinars on a variety of topics, including vernal pools, stream monitoring, native and invasive plants, and native wildlife in the Patapsco watershed. We provided a series of instructional videos on our social media platforms to help followers learn about nature, identify and remove invasive plants, and start their own backyard garden.

People's Choice Winner for PaSNAPsco 2019! "A Hidden Brook" by Emily Mitchell.

To incorporate our expanded heritage area boundaries into our environmental activities, we visited new corners of the Patapsco watershed to mobilize new volunteers and form partnerships with local community, corporate, and government groups. We have established new goals for stream clean ups, behavioral change among landowners, inventorying our vernal pools, and assessing the baseline condition of our streams. In the coming years, through these efforts, we expect to measurably improve the quality of the Patapsco Valley environment, while building an appreciation for stewardship of our region and beyond.

Volunteers are the lifeblood of PHG's environmental stewardship mission. We depend heavily on their manpower to help us achieve our goals. Individuals of all ages, and groups of students and co-workers pitch in to monitor stream cleanliness, plant trees and clean up the Patapsco River and its feeder streams. There are also custom team building opportunities available for businesses and organizations. We would love to have you, your business, or your group part of our team!

PHG’s refocused committee structure, opened new opportunities to further highlight the Valley’s history. On the occasion of the 100th year anniversary of Women's Right to Vote in America, PHG took a special interest in emphasizing the accomplishments of women in the valley during our annual Patapsco History Days in March. As unforeseen circumstances demanded, a quick switch to virtual and digital content via our social media outlets enabled us to still share these important historic stories. With the recent expansion of the Heritage Area we welcome an opportunity to broaden PHG’s historic narrative to include new stories of Granite’s Nike Missile Site, Woodstock’s Mt. Pleasant Farm., and Ellicott City’s Korean Way. We look forward to introducing others to this rich and varied heritage.

We continue to be actively involved in the many dramatic changes coming to the gem of our Heritage Area--Historic Ellicott City. PHG provided constructive input on the draft Ellicott City Watershed Master Plan, a 20-year blueprint for an enhanced streetscape which includes added cultural, historic and environmental aspects. While understanding that some historic buildings must go, we suggested alternate artistic/structural changes to Lower Main Street that preserve the memory and culture of the missing buildings. PHG representatives are also at the table as part of the project’s current Army Corps Section 106 process regarding historic preservation. Amidst the future changes PHG is working with Ec250 on plans for the town's 250th anniversary celebration in 2022.

Charles Wagandt II

We miss and remember with admiration PHG founder Charles L. Wagandt II, who passed on May 21 at the age of 95. Charles' pre-1990 early vision and diligence, combined with PHG's efforts to establish the Patapsco Valley Heritage Area, led to its formal designation in 2015. Charles is known for his preservation work in the textile mill village of Oella, keeping the best of what the community offered, such as charming historic architecture and access to the rugged riverine valley. Over many years, he worked tirelessly to bring public sewer and water to the neglected area, saved and rehabbed many historic homes, and committed to keeping rents low for the millworker families who remained long after the mill itself closed. He initiated the rescue of the 1789 George Ellicott house by moving the damaged structure out of the floodplain. Oella is a beautiful and desirable community with its history intact, offering established trails, as well as Benjamin Banneker's homestead, thanks to Charles' vision and hard work. Charles, as one of PHG's charter leaders, was a forward-thinking advocate for the Valley.

RECREATION

Vice President Sylvia Ramsey, Committee Chair

Recreational opportunities within Patapsco Heritage Greenway are entering exciting new territory!

PHG's long-awaited vision to improve and create an expansive network of connections within the Patapsco Valley based on trails, signage and collaborations between partners is closer than ever. Currently, trail building work is ongoing within Patapsco Valley State Park, as we prepare for the new Guinness/Elkridge Connector Trail, and other new opportunities within our expanded boundary. We are very excited to engage not only Guinness Open Gate Brewery but all the new partners within our expanded boundary. We plan to increase our outreach to additional recreation-focused organizations and foster support for new recreational opportunities that include horseback riding, paddling, and mountain biking. Working with both new friends and the familiar, PHG hopes to launch a multi-sport relay, a new Extreme Patapsco event.

As a member of the national Recreate Responsibly Coalition we continue to proactively provide useful content via our website and social media platforms to educate and inform users about safe, healthy recreational choices within the Heritage Area. Our new online series of virtual tours of the valley's most popular spots, launched last year, also now offers a digital way to connect and experience the outdoors. Whether virtually or in reality, PHG is actively promoting the connection of people to the Valley's varied recreational choices and the great outdoors.

Meet Our New Executive Director Aaron Shapiro

“I am incredibly excited to join PHG and work with partners across the Patapsco Valley Heritage Area and Maryland to draw attention to the rich and diverse history, culture and environment of the river valley. While we have entered uncertain times, the pandemic has also drawn increased attention to the need for preserving our natural and cultural resources for the health and well-being of our communities. PHG is well-positioned to help lead this effort.”

Aaron Shapiro
Executive Director
Patapsco Heritage Greenway

Prior to his position with UNC Charlotte, Shapiro, a native Chicagoan, started and directed the public history program at Auburn University and served as national historian for the US Forest Service in Washington, DC. There he was involved with a range of public history projects including films, digital initiatives, oral histories, interpretive planning, exhibit development, historic preservation, and heritage tourism. Before joining the Forest Service, Aaron was Assistant Director of the Scholl Center for Family and Community History at Chicago's Newberry Library. He received his MA and PhD in History from the University of Chicago and a BA in History from the University of Pennsylvania. His research, teaching and public history work over the last two decades has explored changing perspectives of the cultural and natural landscape, connections between memory, heritage, and public historical interpretation, the history of land use and environmental change, modern environmental politics, and broader cultural transformations in twentieth century urban and rural America. He is the author of The Lure of the North Woods: Cultivating Tourism in the Upper Midwest, which won the 2014 Jon Gjerde Prize for best book in Midwestern history.
